

Head of the class.

Irene Walters, Executive Director of University Relations and Communications at IPFW, doesn't just bank with Tower, she proudly serves on our board of directors. Why? Because, in her words, "Tower is among the last of what seems like a dying breed—a genuine local bank." Our mission, from the beginning, has been to serve local people and have our operations directed by local people. "Tower is sensitive to the needs of ordinary citizens and small businesses—the true bedrock of our economy," says Irene. "If I can contribute, even in a small way, to the success of a "hometown" bank in this community, I'm more than happy to do so." Now that's old school.
